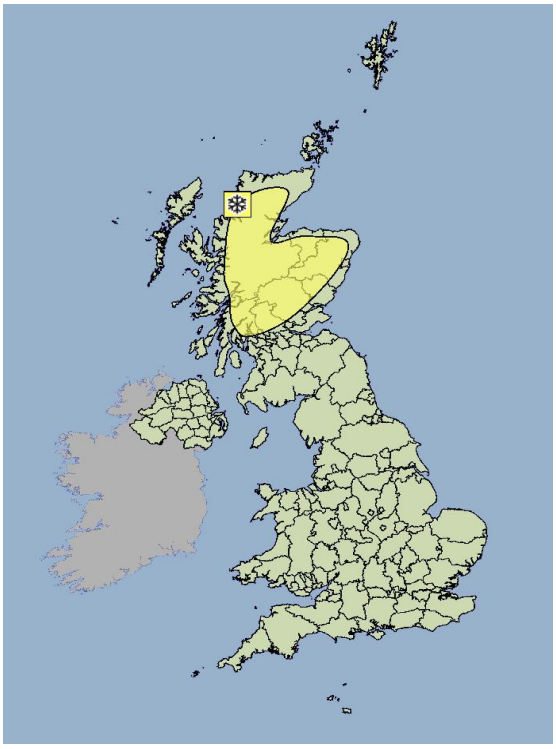
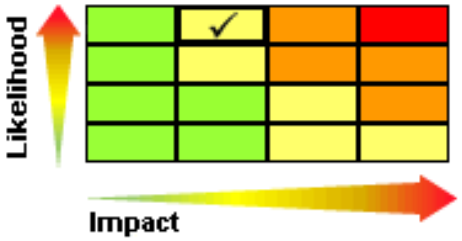
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Storm Conor, although well to the north of Scotland, will drag arctic air across the region, bringing heavy, wintry showers, some with thunder and lightning.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow

Valid from 02:00 on Mon, 26th Dec 2016 until 13:00 on Mon, 26th Dec 2016

Frequent, blustery showers will fall as snow above about 150 m, and as a mixture of rain, sleet and snow to lower levels. Gusts of wind of 40-50 mph, and much more on high ground, will lead to temporary blizzard conditions at times. Fresh snow accumulations of 5-10 cm are expected above about 200 m, and of 10-15 cm above about 400 m. At low levels a couple of cm may accumulate locally, with icy patches on untreated surfaces.

Please be aware of the risk of hazardous driving conditions and disruption to transport.
